

ABSTRACT

Supporting Student's Learning Process At SMPK Sang Timur Malang.

(January 2023)

Tiffani Athalia Liemuel., Ma Chung University;

Advisor: Dr. Daniel Ginting S. S., M. Pd

This report aims to report the teaching assistant program that went on during one semester starting from September 5, 2022, and ending on December 15, 2022. This program is carried offline from Monday to Friday. The writer had duties as an English teacher for 7th grade. While observing the teaching assistant program, the writer found several problems, including students did not understand the intent of the questions, and students with low self-esteem affect learning process. The writer applied several methods to overcome the problem such as, gain student's interest and gave more support to each students who had low self-esteem. The writer also describes all the teaching activities at SMPK Sang Timur Malang.

Keywords: learning process, teaching assistant, supporting students, engage students interest.